Says Accused Slayer Had

$8,000 Cash Mariner 9 Photo of Mars Is Due

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The former female companion of Daniel Lon Graham, 31, of near Springdale testified in Circuit Court here Wednesday that Graham had about $8,000 on the night a Springdale supermarket was robbed and two employees of the store fatally shot.

Graham is being tried on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the death of Gene A. Franco, 22, who was killed after he and two other employees were abducted the night of June 18. Kenneth Melvin Ames, 18, also was killed and a third employee, Michael E. Hawkins, survived head wounds.

The state is seeking the death penalty.

Mrs. Wanda Lebeck, 27, the key witness on the first day of testimony, said she was with Graham the night of June 18. She said the two were camped at the Hickory Creek Recreation Area campsite on Beaver Lake.

She testified that about mid-evening, Graham said he was leaving to "go borrow some money" and would return shortly.

She said Graham returned later in the night with about $8,000 and said, "Let's get out of here, the law is after me!"

Mrs. Lebeck said she, Graham and her four small daughters immediately left the campsite and drove to Michigan, where Graham was later captured.

She said Graham instructed her to throw a .22-caliber pistol from the window of their pickup truck near the Indiana border. She said later she led Washington County Sheriff Bill Long to the gun.

Dr. John Boyce, who examined Franco's body, testified the man had been shot in the head with a .22-caliber weapon.

Howard McDaniel and Steven Barnes, both employees of the Western Auto Store at Rogers, testified that Graham purchased a .22-caliber pistol at the store two days before the killings.

Gene Wiley, an employee of the Oklahoma Tire and Supply Store at Rogers said Graham had come to the OTASCO store on June 16 and tried to buy a gun, but Wiley said he did not have the type of gun Graham wanted — a .22-caliber pistol.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hurling faster and faster toward its Saturday rendezvous with Mars, Mariner 9 beams to earth today its first scientific photographs of the red planet.

Some scientists fear a million-square-mile swirling dust storm on the planet will interfere with observation of surface features.

Other scientists, however, are eagerly awaiting Martian rendezvous because they feel the storm, which has been in progress for seven weeks will give them a unique chance to observe a dynamic, changing event under way in the planet's atmosphere.

Scientists said the reddish-yellow storm seems to be moving from 20 to 30 miles an hour, may have reached heights of more than five miles, and now covers all of the visible southern part of the planet.

Mariner 9 began taking a series of 31 photographs at 5:17 p.m. EST Wednesday while 535,000 miles from Mars. The picture-taking session was to end at 5:56 p.m. EST today when the tiny spacecraft was 355,000 miles from the planet. The photographs were stored in an onboard tape recorder which was to begin playing them back at 6:16 p.m. EST for display at the California Institute of Technology here.

Twenty-five of the pictures are to show Mars as it rotates through one Martian day. Six others will show Deimos, the tiny Martian moon.

Deimos has never been photographed close up before. Phobos, the other Martian moon, was photographed once in 1969 during the Mariner 6 and 7 flights. From earth the moons appear only as pinpoints of light. Scientists hope Mariner 9 will be able to see surface details on the moons.

THE VIEW from Mars for Mariner 9 is spectacular. In this artist's conception, the first U.S. spacecraft to orbit another planet passes over the cratered Martian surface with the earth and its moon (both enlarged from actual dimensions) millions of miles distant in the background. Circling Mars every 12 hours in an orbit ranging from 10,700 miles to 750 miles, Mariner 9 is programmed to map more than 70 per cent of the surface, radioing to earth more than 15 times the amount of information reported on previous fly-by missions.

Nominee Group Goes Into Closed Meet

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee was called into closed session today to consider President Nixon's Supreme Court nominees, but no vote is expected for a week.

The committee's hearings on the nominations of William H. Rehnquist, a top aide to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, and Lewis F. Powell Jr., a millionaire Richmond, Va., lawyer, ended late Wednesday.

While Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he hoped to report both nominations favorably to the Senate at today's meeting, committee rules allow any member to force a seven-day delay.

And, Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., a member of the committee's liberal bloc, said that if no one else did, he would invoke the rule to prevent a vote on Rehnquist's nomination.

Tunney said he is prepared to approve the nomination of Powell but had not decided how he would vote on Rehnquist, who has run into sharp opposition from civil rights and labor leaders.

"Why should we rush to a quick decision?" asked Tunney. "Why not wait a week?"

Tunney and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., another committee member who says he has reservations about Rehnquist, have said the committee appears ready to approve both nominees if a vote is taken immediately.

As for the full Senate, Eastland has predicted confirmation.

Powell, 64, has been nominated to succeed the late Hugo L. Black on the court, while Rehnquist, 47, would replace John M. Harlan. The two seats have been vacant since early September.

Among 17 witnesses testifying Wednesday at the committee's concluding hearing were representatives of the AFL-CIO and the United Auto Workers Union who opposed Rehnquist's nomination but not Powell's. The same position had been taken the day before by spokesmen for the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

Says Americans Expect Too Much of Government

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Wednesday that the nation for too long had been persuaded to follow a policy of "spending our way to prosperity."

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said statistics demonstrated that there was an increased reliance on the national government to provide services to the public. The American people demand these services, he said, but fail to understand that the taxpayer ultimately will bear the cost in increased taxes.

Mills, speaking to the 43rd annual meeting of the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce and Associated Industries of Arkansas, said tax reductions such as those in the tax package that passed the House in October would bring about a higher level of economic activity, fuller utilization manpower and more intensive and prosperous use of plants and equipment.

Sources Says Panel Expands Agri Head to Bow Out List of Items Free of Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin is reported ready to quit, but White House officials say the decision is not linked with the fretting of President Nixon's political advisers over Farm Belt discontent.

For the record, the White House and Agriculture Department were noncommittal on Hardin's plans.

But administration sources indicated Wednesday that it is virtually certain Hardin will resign soon from the Cabinet post he has held since Nixon took office.

White House officials, who declined to be named, stressed that Nixon is happy with the job Hardin has been doing.

However, GOP political strategists have been unable to hide their growing concern about sagging Republican fortunes among farmers in the Midwest.

The GOP lost several key Farm Belt congressional contests in 1970, and the political planners are worried about what this might portend for 1972.

Nixon carried virtually every farm state in 1968 after a campaign in which he was sharply critical of Democratic farm programs.

Military Pay Hike Needs Action Now

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2.4-billion military pay raise, biggest in history, may be delayed from taking effect Sunday unless the President's Pay Board acts this week to exempt the armed forces from its wage guidelines.

The raise, approved by Congress and signed into law by President Nixon Sept. 28 as part of the draft extension act, provides increases averaging 15 per cent in pay and benefits for 2.6 million men and women in uniform. The board's guidelines limit increases generally to 5.5 per cent a year.

Basic pay for recruits will be nearly doubled from $1,612 a year to $3,222.

"The question of military pay is being given the highest priority but as of now the increase will not be automatic," a Pay Board spokesman said Wednesday. "There will be no change in pay until the board rules specifically on the increase."

But the Defense Department said it is prepared to begin paying the new rates next week. However, the department was rebuffed once before when it was forced by the administration to back down from its position that the armed forces were exempt from the wage-price freeze.

Although the board has had no official comment on the military pay issue, sources said a favorable ruling is almost certain—but not necessarily before the freeze ends at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Board members are believed to feel the military pay raise is not related to the cost of living but is more a "re-evaluation of what the military man is worth," the sources said.

Congress approved the raise to take effect Oct. 1 but the President put it off until Nov. 13, saying it was subject to his 90-day wage-price freeze.

The big pay-and-benefits package is intended to bring military pay scales up to civilian levels and help in attracting an all-volunteer army by July 1973.

Most of the gains are for the lowest-ranking enlisted men and for officers with less than two years of service—second lieutenants and Navy ensigns—whose basic monthly pay has qualified some of them for welfare payments.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say nearly a fifth of the average American's cost of living will be exempt from post-freeze price controls.

The Price Commission was putting finishing touches on those price guidelines, which are to replace the more-rigid freeze rules this weekend. An announcement was expected today or Friday.

But Wednesday the Cost of Living Council, which outranks the price panel, greatly expanded the list of items that will not be controlled. And the council said more exemptions might be made.

It said all used products, including cars and homes, and a long list of lesser things including custom-made items, handicrafts and dues will be free from government ceilings after the freeze period ends at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. New homes will be exempt.

The council did not estimate how much of the cost of living the exempt items account for. However, an official at the Bureau of Labor Statistics said used cars make up 2 per cent of the Consumer Price Index, homes make up 6.2 per cent and other items might add a little more.

These are added to items that were partly or wholly free from price ceilings from the start, including raw agricultural products, taxes, stocks, interest rates and imports. The bureau estimated earlier that these make up roughly 10 per cent of the cost of living.

The new and old exemptions added together mean that 18.2 per cent or more of the cost of living will be free from post-freeze price ceilings.

The Pay Board also has allowed some exceptions to its general rule that post-freeze agreements can't call for pay raises of more than 5.5 per cent a year. For example, existing contracts will be allowed to run their course subject only to rollbacks of raises found to be "unreasonably inconsistent" with the 5.5 per cent rule.

Furthermore, Donald Rumfeld, executive director of the Cost of Living Council, said at a news conference Wednesday that the Pay Board likely will make other exceptions. He did not elaborate, but the board has left room for inequity adjustments and exceptions for substandard wages.

In another action Wednesday, the Cost of Living Council announced that post-freeze controls for the vast majority of America's businesses and workers will be policed only by spot checks and citizen complaints. Advance approval of price or wage increases will be required only of the biggest businesses and unions.

$71 Billion for Defense Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today cited "the magnitude and intensity" of the Soviet military buildup as it approved $71 billion in new financing for the Defense Department.

The money is for use during the current fiscal year.

The committee cautioned against "drastic reductions" when the money bill reaches the House floor next week. It said the $2.5 billion it lopped off the $73.5 billion requested by the President would not adversely affect essential programs.

The new funds would provide for 2.5 million active-duty military personnel by June 30, 1972, and 11,924 active aircraft and 396 active warships including 16 attack carriers. New warships to join the fleet this year include six nuclear attack submarines, with five more to be constructed. Active-duty military personnel will drop about 200,000 during the year.

In a report accompanying the bill, the committee said intelligence estimates show the Soviet Union "has passed the United States in number of intercontinental ballistic missiles on launches."

"The United States still maintains an adequate and credible strategic deterrent force," the committee added. "Since our missile-launching submarines still outnumber those of the Soviet Union and our manned strategic bomber aircraft far outnumber those of the Soviets."

It said the Soviet Union has turned its attention to construction of a first-class, deep-water navy.

New funds recommended are $1.46 billion more than were provided last year, with the committee explaining that because of inflation the defense dollar buys "far less than it bought in past years."

Leaders Fight to Limit Phase 2

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans on the House Banking Committee planned a counter-attack today to strip away Democratic-backed amendments limiting President Nixon's Phase 2 economic legislation.

Their principal target is a provision adopted by a one-vote margin last week that would require all but grossly disproportionate negotiated wage increases to be paid during the post-freeze period. The requirement would include retroactive payments for the 90-day freeze ending at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Such a requirement is a major goal of organized labor.

Republicans, in close consultation with the White House, were reported debating whether to make their major effort within the committee or on the floor of the House, after the bill clears the committee.

One possible strategy is an effort to muster a committee majority for a substitute bill that would delete some, but not all, the amendments.

In addition to the retroactive-pay provision, such a substitute reportedly would omit a provision for consumers' damage suits in case of overcharges and a requirement that interest rates be regulated whenever other controls are in effect.

A provision exempting from pay controls the wages of working people below the poverty level might be allowed to remain in the substitute.

The few Republicans who voted with Democrats for various amendments were reported under heavy pressure to reverse their positions. And members generally reported a heavy volume of message from union leaders in their districts. The committee has yet to reach one major decision: whether to extend the basic authority for economic controls a full year, until April 30, 1973, as Nixon requested.

Brazilian Student Is Miss World

LONDON (AP) — Lucia Petterle, 22, a tawny-haired Brazilian medical student who wants to become a gland specialist, began her reign today as Miss World 1971 after winning a beauty pageant labeled "the most degrading show on earth" by protesting feminists.

As Miss Petterle was crowned Wednesday night in Albert Hall, a noisy crowd of women's liberationists shouted abuse outside and tied up traffic. Dozens of police shepherded the demonstrators, who carried such placards as, "We are not beautiful, we are not ugly, we are angry," and "Which cow will win the red ribbon?"

Motorcycle, Car Collide, One Injured

A motorcycle and Volkswagen collided at Hervey and 7th Streets Thursday morning, one person was injured and there was heavy property damage, City Police reported.

Officers said the car, driven by Patricia G. Moore, was traveling west on 7th and pulled into the path of the motorcycle ridden by James M. Sinyard. Both the cycle and rider were tossed about 10 feet into a ditch. Young Sinyard, son of Sheriff Henry Sinyard, suffered a broken shoulder and bruises. He was examined in a local hospital and taken to Texarkana for treatment.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged. City Patrolman Halton charged Patricia Moore with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Entire Family Convicted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ralph H. Lafferty Sr., 49, of near North Little Rock and his wife and three sons were convicted Wednesday in U.S. District Court here of conducting a gambling operation in violation of the federal Organized Crime Control Act of 1970.

Judge G. Thomas Eisele deferred sentencing pending the completion of a presentence report by federal probation officers.

The government charged that Lafferty, his wife Helen and their three sons, Ralph H. Lafferty Jr., Charles E. Lafferty and Mike Lafferty, operated a horse betting establishment in North Little Rock between Feb. 5 and March 26 of last year.

Congress Taking Steps to Continue Fgn. Aid

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected 64-24 today a move to make deeper cuts in the military aid program after a warning that reductions proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee would jeopardize U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

On the first of two test votes on the size of the arms aid program, it rejected an amendment by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to make an additional $185 million in cuts on top of the $538 million already included.

Later, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., hoped to restore $318 million of the total cut from the program by the Foreign Relations panel.

The size of the military aid program was the key issue as the Senate worked to complete the second half of the $2.3-billion foreign aid package that would replace the single, $2.9-billion bill rejected by the Senate Oct. 29.

The Nixon administration had asked $3.5 billion for the aid program and the House approved $3.4 billion.

Despite Senate progress on the new aid package and a House vote to keep the present program in operation until congressional adjournment, there was doubt either move could be completed before the present program expires Nov. 15.

Arguing against Fulbright's amendment, Stennis said that the reductions approved by the committee "jeopardize the success of our withdrawal from South Vietnam."

The Senate late Wednesday passed a sharply reduced $1.1-billion economic aid bill for the remainder of this fiscal year by a vote of 61 to 23.

Senators today consider a $1.2-billion military aid measure, second portion of a two-part package designed to replace the $2.9-billion aid bill rejected by the Senate on Oct. 29. The administration has asked a total of $3.4 billion.

The House, meanwhile, passed and sent to the Senate an interim funding resolution to provide money until Congress adjourns for several federal agencies—chiefly the Pentagon, the Agency for International Development (AID), which runs the foreign aid program, the Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers the anti-poverty program, and the District of Columbia. Present authority for all of them expires Monday.

Labor Lashes Federal Wage Limits

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Organized labor's strong opposition to new federal wage limits is shaping up as an early issue in the 1972 presidential election and most union chiefs are already virtually committed to trying to oust President Nixon from the White House.

"We will not be a scapegoat for this administration," said AFL-CIO President George Meany, whose labor federation of nearly 14 million members is working full tilt to defeat Nixon.

The election campaign makes Meany's decision over whether to quit Nixon's Pay Board or stay on it to fight from the inside as much a political as a practical problem for labor.

While Meany said it will be up to the AFL-CIO convention next week to decide whether to remain on the Pay Board or walk out, most labor leaders gathering here say privately it will be Meany's own decision.

One major AFL-CIO union, the meat cutters with 500,000 members, is mounting a convention campaign for a labor walkout from the Pay Board. But the meat cutters frequently are at odds with Meany on big policy questions.

The AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department representing some three million workers, and more closely in tune with ex-plumber Meany, took a more cautious view of hopefulness that Meany will remain on the board "to work out problems from the inside."

But the leaders of the 17 construction unions said they will abide by whatever the convention decides.

The AFL-CIO has two other members among the five labor members of the Pay Board who would certainly follow Meany in whatever action he takes. They are Presidents I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers and Floyd Smith of the Inter-

Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters and Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers, the nation's two largest unions outside the AFL-CIO. They have generally followed Meany's lead so far in dealing with Nixon's wage controls.

However, highly placed sources in the UAW reported in Detroit Wednesday that the union is expected to oppose any labor pullout from the Pay Board. The UAW consensus, the sources said, is that the union's members will get all or nearly all of their wage boosts scheduled before the current wage-price freeze went into effect.

Governors Ask Uniform Law on Busing

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Southern Governors Conference has called for a uniform policy of busing for school desegregation, and urged that federal funds for busing not be cut off until such a policy is made.

The governors, who ended their three-day conference Wednesday, went on record as being opposed to busing. But they agreed that they should favor federal expenditures for busing if it is ordered by the courts.

Originally the resolution objected to busing and praised the U.S. House decision last week to deny the use of government money in busing students for racial balance.

But, as Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel pointed out, "If we can't use federal money, it means that money has got to be found by the governors."

So, at the suggestion of South Carolina Gov. John West, the resolution was amended to say that a prohibition on expenditure of federal funds "should not be adopted without a uniform policy by all branches of the federal government."

Govs. Linwood Holton of Virginia, Dale Bumper of Arkansas and Reubin Askew of Florida were among those absent when the antibusing vote was taken.

Another position taken by the Dixie executives was that the United States should not make any moves toward disarmament except as part of a two-nation or a multinational agreement. Such an agreement, they said, would have to include "an adequate system for controls and inspections."

In another resolution, the governors asked for a congressional investigation of tax-exempt foundations which may be eroding the nation's tax base and forcing some citizens to pay disproportionate amounts.

Gov. Luis Ferré of Puerto Rico was elected chairman of the conference in 1972, and West was named vice chairman.

Ferré said his election was proof of a "growing liberality and moderation" among leaders of the South.

The governors also accepted a joint invitation from West and Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina to hold next year's meeting in Hilton Head, S.C., about Labor Day.

Mamie to Attend Dedication

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower has arrived in this desert community for a lengthy visit following a two-week stay at a Texas hospital where she was treated for bronchial infection.

After arriving by train Wednesday, the widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower said she was still "a little shaky" from her stay at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio.

NEW YORK (AP) — People are always going up or down in this world.

The summit is the goal but it is a crowded, restless place and hard to perch on for long.

It behooves a man, therefore, to know whether his career is ascending or declining. In a world of sham this isn't always too easy. But there are certain guide marks.

Harris Bows Out of Race for President

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma says he is broke, $40,000 in debt, and out of the Democratic presidential campaign.

His withdrawal, after a costly, six-week campaign, could leave Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York as principal rivals for liberal Democratic support in early primaries next year.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine remains the frontrunner, the man to beat top any Democrat who wants the 1972 presidential nomination.

Muskie told a news conference in Billings, Mont.: "I'm sorry Fred can't go on, but it is difficult to evaluate the impact."

Harris quit the race saying he is not satisfied with any of the other prospects, but doesn't have the money to challenge them.

And McGovern, now the only announced Democratic candidate, said the early dropouts of Harris, Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana should help his presidential bid.

"I think there's more potential McGovern support among the kind of people who were backing them," he said in an interview, though he acknowledged it could yield Lindsay support, too.

Harris summed up his situation Wednesday with three words: "I am broke." He said the campaign he announced formally on Sept. 24 cost between $250,000 and $300,000 before the funds ran out.

"If I could see $50,000 a month up until primary time, I would run right now," he said.

He said he believes America is ready for fundamental change, for a redistribution of income, a breakup of major corporations, a foreign policy based on idealism.

"There's a great constituency out there for somebody," Harris said.

Harris said that although he will not run for re-election to the Senate in Oklahoma next year, he will keep trying to influence national opinion and issues, perhaps by writing and lecturing.

Democratic sources said the Harris campaign fundered after Herbert Allen Jr., a New York businessman and major supporter, cooled toward his role as a political financier.

Return of Okinawa Approved

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration hopes relations with Japan, which plunged to a post-World War II low in the past three months, have bottomed out and will turn upward as the result of overwhelming Senate ratification of the treaty returning Okinawa to Japan.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers called the 84-6 Senate vote Wednesday "a ringing affirmation by the people of the U.S. to our Japanese friends and allies of friendship, trust and mutual interest." Other U.S. officials and experts who follow the situation closely, however, cautioned against over-optimism that U.S.-Japanese relations were restored to their previous high.

The Japanese government welcomed the Senate move as "an extremely happy event."

Casualties Still Low in Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Casualties in the Vietnam war last week were the lowest in months in all categories except the totals for American dead, the allied commands reported today. And the American death totals were increased by fatalities which actually occurred prior to the week of Oct. 31-Nov. 6.

The low casualty levels reflected a general lull in battlefield action as well as the continuing withdrawal of American forces from combat.

The U.S. Command reported eight Americans killed in combat, 13 wounded and 33 dead from nonhostile causes. The total wounded was the smallest in more than 6 1/2 years.

The U.S. Command also announced that an Army helicopter gunship was shot down Wednesday night 11 miles southeast of Khe Sanh, and two crewmen were wounded. It was the 8,016th U.S. aircraft reported lost in Indochina.

U.S. fighter-bombers flying from bases in Thailand are already providing tactical air support for the South Vietnamese army in a preview of the war as it will be fought after most U.S. ground combat forces are withdrawn from Vietnam.

American fighter-bombers flew 1,156 combat strikes in support of the big South Vietnamese operation along the Cambodian border last month, it was learned today, and at least 25 to 30 per cent of the planes came from the bases in Thailand.

Nearly a third of the strikes required special navigational and radar equipment to guide the planes through the low clouds that often prevailed. The South Vietnamese air force doesn't have this all-weather bombing capability.

Four U.S. fighter-bomber squadrons are still in Vietnam from a high of 21 in 1968. In Thailand, the United States has about eight squadrons of supersonic F4s, several squadrons of other fighter-bombers, light bombers and gunships, and its B52 strategic bombers.

American officers consider that the South Vietnamese air force performed well in the Cambodian operation logging 1,398 tactical air strikes, or 242 more than the Americans. But some sources felt they could have done even better had they called in idle planes from bases outside the battle zone.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said earlier this week that American air power would be used "as long as it's needed."

Commissioner Denies Charges Made by GOP

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Land Commissioner Sam Jones said Wednesday that an article in this month's issue of Arkansas Outlook that concerned his relatives being on his office payroll was libelous.

The article in the official Republican party publication, said that since 1957, Jones and various relatives employed from time to time had been paid a total of more than $65,000.

The commissioner, serving his eighth term, declined to say whether he might pursue the matter in court.

"I'll see how far they go and then I'll decide what to do," Jones said.

He said that "several things in the article are absolutely incorrect."

He said some figures listed in a chart accompanying the article were erroneous and that some sums attributed by the article as salary payments to Jones' daughter were actually payments received by Jones himself.

The article also rehearsed an allegation made in 1968 by Ed Allison of Blytheville that former state Rep. Paul Val Dalsem of Perry County had purchased land from the state Land Office.

Courts subsequently held, Jones said, that the land bought by Val Dalsem for $1 was land that had become joined to his through accretion along the Arkansas River and all Val Dalsem had to do to acquire title to it was pay a $1 fee.

China UN Delegation Arrives

NEW YORK (AP) — The leaders of Communist China's first permanent delegation to the United Nations arrived at Kennedy Airport Thursday in sparkling autumn weather to a handshaking crowd of diplomats protected by hundreds of police.

Wearing a red scarf and topcoat, Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua was greeted by U.N. delegates from Zambia, Albania and Pakistan and U.N. chief of protocol, Sinan Korle.

An advance six-man Chinese party, in New York arranging temporary office and living space since Monday, also was in the crowd.

As Chiao read a statement expressing "deep thanks" to the welcome, two demonstrations—one pro-Chinese and the other against—were conducted out of earshot.

"Our delegation will work jointly in the United Nations with the representatives of all the countries that love peace and uphold justice for the cause of safeguarding the international peace and promoting human progress," Chiao said.

During his speech, more than 150 city and Port of New York Authority police kept order. Armed policemen patrolled the roof of a terminal 300 yards distant.

Chiao continued, "The people of the United States are a great people and there exists a profound friendship between the peoples of the China and the United States."

Chiao, Kuan and 20 aides touched down at 12:26 p.m. The other passengers departed first, and U.S. immigration, public health and customs officials entered the craft.

At 12:50 p.m., the first Chinese left the jet.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

NEEDED—A FOSTER HOME

Dear Helen and Sue:
I have a father who has made a habit of throwing my mother out of the house for the past 15 years. Now he's starting on me.

Last night he had his worst fit ever. He threw the vacuum cleaner down the stairs and broke it. He also smashed two statues against the wall and threw the dog across two rooms, then kicked him so hard he's still at the vet's. Our dog didn't do anything—my father hurt him because we love him, and that was a way of hurting my mother and me.

Next, because I tried to protect Mom, he told me to leave and never come back, then pushed me outside and locked the door. I stayed at a neighbor's.

Mom won't leave him because she says he's sick and needs her. He's well enough to keep a good job, but he lets out all his frustrations on us. The least little thing will set off a temper tantrum that won't quit. She says "Don't fight back," but when he calls me an SOB and screams at me and beats on me, should I just stand there and take it-like she does?

I'm back home now (home?—that's a laugh!) thanks to Mom, but if I stay here much longer I may kill my father. Besides, he keeps asking me to leave, even though I'm not quite 16.

Is there a better way of solving my problem—and Mom's—TEMPTED

Dear Tempted:
YOUR problem may be solved by a visit to the Juvenile Hall in your town, and a placement in a foster home. After all, your father threw you out, and expects you to stay out. Under these circumstances I believe you can become a ward of the county.

Let's hope this opens your mother's eyes: giving in to a psychopathic bully seldom helps.
"Getting Someone's Goat"
The expression, "getting someone's goat," stems from horse racing. Spirited racehorses are often calmed when provided with a small stablemate, such as a goat. In order to upset a horse, rival trainers would sometimes "get" (steal) his goat the day before a big race.

anyone—including him—HELEN

Dear Tempted:

Why doesn't your Mother turn the tables and throw the bum out? Or lock the door and not let him in? If he's as bad as you say, you need this "husband and father" like Vietnam needs another war!—SUE

Dear "Generation Rap":
My sister is a blackmailer, too, like the one in your column not long ago. Only in a different way.

She has two pictures of me. She's good at sneaking up with her camera! One is of me smoking. The other is even worse: she got a shot of my mother spanking me across her knee—with my pants down. You know what that would do for a 13-year-old guy if it got shown around school.

And if my mother saw proof that I smoked, I'd get it again! I'm no angel. I'm practically always in trouble, so I don't want any more or I won't be able to play on the football team, plus I'll get another sore bottom. My folks use a plywood paddle and that hurts!

So my sister demands $1.50 from my allowance every week, and makes me do most of the chores. I also have to let her watch HER TV programs, which aren't mine. Otherwise, the pictures get shown around... where they'll do the most harm.

This may sound corny, but I love my sister in spite of everything, and I don't want to get her in trouble by finking. Besides, it would get me in more trouble. What shall I do?—JOEY

Dear Joey:
In most parents' books, black-mailing is a worse crime than smoking. So why not try this: At the dinner table, hand your sister her "hush-money," and tell her you'll get her work done first thing in the morning. Naturally your folks will be curious, but shrug off any questions with "It's just a business deal."

Later, tell Sis you'll explain the whole "business" if she doesn't hand over the pictures—AND THE NEGATIVES!—and stay mum. Should she stay greedy—tell! One punishment isn't as bad as months of being broke and overworked.—SUE & HELEN

What a curious duplicate game thought Alice. The red queen was playing at the next table. Alice had heard her say, "You are not doubting me at four hearts. You are bidding five diamonds and I am doubling you."

The white rabbit who was Alice's partner remarked, very quietly, "We should try for second. The last time the queen lost, the director and the winning pair lost their heads."

Alice found herself playing three no-trump. East won the spade lead with the king and returned the nine. West played low and Alice was on lead. She could try heart and diamond finesses to make nine tricks without having to lose the lead but decided to settle for down one. Therefore she knocked out the ace of clubs and went down one as expected.

This result was one point from top. Three no-trump was played at every table and all other declarers except one had tried the finesse and gone down two.

What happened at the table that scored top? The queen had made three no-trump with an overtrick. The defense had started out the same way as Alice and the queen had knocked out the ace of clubs just as Alice had. Then she had glared at East and he had wisely led back a club to let the queen make her contract.

Shakespeare Society Loses Headquarters

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Shakespeare Society of America, faced with imminent demolition of its headquarters, is pondering a crucial question—"To be, or not to be."

"The plans for the society are not clear at this point," says R. Thad Taylor, one time electrical engineer who quit his job and founded the society seven years ago.

Since then, he says membership has climbed to about 1,000—most members in Southern California.

For four years, Shakespeare headquarters here has been an Elizabethan Tudor design 26-room house billed as a near perfect replica of New Place, the house where the Bard died.

Members turned it into a combination theater, museum, acting school and rare book library. Shakespearean play productions drew good audiences and reviewers noted the quaint, appropriate setting. Taylor envisioned a Shakespeare cultural center of theaters and schools on 3½ acres surrounding the house.

But funds were scarce. The society, supported by dues, was operating at a deficit. Members rented the house, hoping to buy it someday.

Now someone has beat them to it. A financial corporation paid about $1 million for house and land, says Taylor, and gave the society an eviction notice.

Predictions in Prep School Play

By HARRY KING Associated Press Writer LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pine Bluff's football team has gone in more directions this season than a football bouncing off artificial turf.

Which way the Zebras bounce Friday night against Little Rock Catholic may decide the AAAA conference title.

The Rockets are 3-1 in conference play with Pine Bluff, North Little Rock Northeast and North Little Rock yet to play.

Fort Smith Northside, the conference leader with a 5-1 record, can clinch at least a share of the title Friday night against North Little Rock. Catholic is the only other team with one conference loss.

Pine Bluff dropped its first four games and then lost a two-point decision to highly regarded Little Rock Parkview. Then, the Zebras scored victories over El Dorado and Hall, lost to a strong Greenville, Miss., team and defeated North Little Rock.

About the time it appeared the Zebras might be back, they lost to North Little Rock North-east. The victory was the Chargers' first in AAAA competition.

Catholic must be wary of the Zebras but the incentive of a conference championship should get the Rockets ready.

LR CATHOLIC 17, PINE BLUFF 13.

Hot Springs can wrap up a share of the AAA-West championship and a spot in the state playoffs with a victory over Fort Smith Southside this week.

The Trojans had trouble with Springdale last week, but salvaged an important 14-7 victory. Southside is still recovering from a 48-12 loss to Parkview.

HOT SPRINGS 27, FS SOUTHSIDE 13.

Last week's record was .712, dropping the season percentage to .737.

Here are predictions involving AAAA and AAA games and the AA, A and B playoffs:

Fort Smith Northside 24, North Little Rock 14; Little Rock Parkview 20, Little Rock Central 14; Little Rock Hall 27, El Dorado 13; Little Rock McClellan 20, North Little Rock

Egad, friends, this Saturday at Sanford Stadium in Athens, Georgia, will indeed be a day to remember! The undefeated Georgia eleven (9-0) and the unbeaten Auburn stalwarts (8-0) meet head-on.

Both clubs have outstanding offenses and stingy defenses with Georgia a shade better in both departments according — kaff-kaff — to the Hoople stats. Yas, dear readers, it'll be the end of the line for the Tigers as Vince Dooley's best-ever Georgia team marches off the field with a hard-earned 33-24 decision — har-rumph!

The other members of the perfect nine — Nebraska (9-0), Alabama (9-0), Michigan (9-0), Toledo (9-0), Penn State (8-0), Oklahoma (8-0) and Cornell (7-0) — figure to stay undefeated.

The Toledo Rockets, possessors of the nation's longest win streak, will make it 33 in-a-row as they wallop Marshall, 42-7. Meanwhile, the Big Red of Cornell will move into the Ivy League throne room as they turn back rugged Dartmouth. The big difference between these two fine teams will be Ed Marinaro who has been averaging just over 210 yards rushing per game. Jove! That young man reminds me of my college days when I was Yale's leading rusher — um-kumph!

Still driving all-out for their Turkey Day shootout Nebraska and Oklahoma will score decisive victories over Big Eight foes. Kansas State and Kansas' "em. Heoplake System calls" em. Heoplake 28, Kansas State 6, and Oklahoma 29, Kansas 14.

Penn State, shooting for its 14th straight, entertains North Carolina State. The Northeast 7; Blytheville 7, Jacksonville 6; Helena 13, Jonesboro 7; Forrest City 27, West Memphis 13; Benton 20, Fayetteville 12 and Texarkana 33, Springdale 14.

AA Playoffs: Rogers 20, Van Buren 14; Stuttgart 21, Batesville 7; Morrilton 27, Lakeside 21 and McGehee 14, Magnolia 8.

A Playoffs: Atkins 19, Greenwood 13; Nashville 20, Little Rock Robinson 12; Augusta 13, Walnut Ridge 6, and Rison 20, Clarendon 13.

B Playoffs: Gentry 14, Magnet Cove 13 and Gillett 27, Mineral Springs 19.

Alston Gets Contract for Another Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Alston, who has survived seventh-place finishes and annual predictions of dismissal to outlast all other active major league managers with the same club, will be back next year for his 19th season with the Dodgers.

The gray-haired, unflappable pilot, who will be 60 Dec. 1, was given his 19th one-year contract Wednesday.

Terms weren't announced, but a team spokesman said Alston was "a safe bet" to be making more than his 1971 salary, which was believed to be between $60,000 and $70,000.

He succeeded Charlie Dressen at the helm of the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1954 after Dressen had differed with management about the length of his contract. Alston has never asked for more than a one-year pact.

"I'm satisfied, and I hope they are," he says.

This year's Dodgers, who Alston said included "more rookies than I've ever had before," trailed division-leading San Francisco by eight games entering September but surged to within one game at the finish.

The performance earned him National League Manager of the Year honors from The Associated Press for the fifth time.

Alston will set a longevity record for Dodger managers next year, eclipsing the 18-year tenure of Wilbert Robinson from 1914 to 1931.

He'll also tie the Chicago Cubs' Cap Anson (1879-1897) for third place on the all-time list of managing one team, behind Connie Mack and John McGraw.

By JERRY LISK Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Maybe Leo Durocher won't manage the Chicago Cubs in 1972, but neither will Mr. Cub, Ernie Banks.

Owner Phil Wrigley erased Banks, a Cub playing star since 1953, as potential successor to controversial Durocher "because I'm too fond of Ernie to make him manager of anything."

Banks, 40, in the twilight of a great major league career all spent with the Cubs, long has been mentioned as a possibility to become the first black manager in the major leagues.

The 65-year-old Durocher apparently is on the ropes after six Cub seasons, but Wrigley Wednesday made it clear that if Leo is dumped, Banks won't be his successor.

"Managing is a dirty job, it doesn't last long and it certainly isn't anything I would wish on Banks who is headed for baseball's Hall of Fame," the 75-year-old Wrigley told the Associated Press.

"Furthermore, I think Banks wouldn't take a managerial job."

Wrigley, who last Sept. 3 took out ads in all Chicago papers giving Durocher a 1971 vote of confidence, now is vague about Durocher's 1972 status.

"I talked on the phone the other day to Durocher who is in Arizona and I told him I wanted to meet with him when he returns to Chicago which he said would in a week or 10 days," said Wrigley.

The chewing gum magnate, whose hiring of long-ide Durocher after the 1965 season was no more startling than Wrigley's ill-fated college of coaches, declined to say whether the vis-a-vis with Leo meant his dismissal.

"I don't know how I will talk to Leo," said Wrigley.

The guess that Banks would succeed Durocher got its latest prompting when Joe Amalfitano, Cub coach and a Durocher pet, resigned Tuesday.

By HUBERT MIZELL Associated Press Sports Writer PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Don't bet the family jewels on the Romanians in the 19th World Cup Golf Championships. A three-legged horse in the Kentucky Derby has a better chance.

"It was worth our trip just to see the Romanian flag raised with all the others," said 61-year-old Pavel Tomita, a pro in Bucharest. "We know we cannot win, but maybe someday ..."

The United States team of Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino were top-heavy favorites today as 46 countries attacked treacherous PGA National Golf Club with a variety of strokes as wide as the earth's belly.

"I think Lee and I will win it," Nicklaus predicted with relaxed confidence. "The thrill of winning, though, isn't as big as the thrill of representing your country."

As for the Romanians, the national pride angle had to be especially dominant in these Olympics of the golfing world.

The little Iron Curtain team entered World Cup play for the first time in 1970 at Buenos Aires, Argentina. Australia's team of Bruce Devlin and David Graham shot a 32-under-par 54 total to capture the cup. Romania hacked its way to a 727, an unbelievable 183 shots behind the Aussies. Tomita led his team with 86-89-92-92.

Golf to some of the countries is as familiar as ice fishing in Hawaii.

"My greatest feeling in a World Cup is when they raise the United States' flag," said Nicklaus, a man who became thinly handsome 20 months ago at the age of 30.

"Anybody who doesn't feel patriotic at a time like that had just as well find himself a new place to live."

The Romanians aren't the only Communist nation entered. The Czechoslovakians decided to come this year.

Nicklaus captured the 1971 PGA championship on the same 7,096-yard east course at PGA

San Francisco Giant coach, as pitching coach. Jansen was a star pitcher two decades ago for the New York Giants managed by Durocher.

Banks has player-coach status with the Cubs on a staff which also includes Al Spangler and Peanuts Lowrey, with Amalfitano's spot to be filled.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS They called him Mr. A when he led UCLA to three straight national collegiate basketball championships.

Now a star in the National Basketball Association with the champion Milwaukee Bucks, the 7-foot-2 Kareem Jabbar, formerly known as Lew Alcindor, has been tagged as a "big safety valve."

Cotton Fitzsimmons, coach of the Phoenix Suns, used that appellation for Jabbar when he scored 44 points in leading the Bucks from behind to beat the Suns Tuesday night. Jabbar did it again Wednesday night getting 33 points as the Bucks erased an 11-point deficit to beat Atlanta 116-110.

Cincinnati downed the New York Knicks 99-85, Chicago tripped Baltimore 125-106, Detroit routed Portland 139-122, Los Angeles crushed Philadelphia 143-103 and Boston overwhelmed Houston 142-103 in other NBA games.

Lou Hudson of Atlanta outscored Jabbar with 41 points, but as Fitzsimmons put it "the Bucks play with confidence when they're behind."

It was Milwaukee's 12th victory against one defeat so far this season.

Injuries Won't Stop Porkers in Rice Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks finished contact work for the week Wednesday as they continued to prepare for Saturday's game with SMU.

Coach Frank Broyles said the Porkers had a good practice session Wednesday. He especially praised the offensive work-out.

Red-shirt fullback Wayne Miles was sent back to the B-team Wednesday as Jon Richardson's leg injury continued to show improvement and Skipper DeBorde returned to practice.

Broyles said fullback John Jenkins was still absent Wednesday and his condition for Saturday's game was not known.

This week's captains will be tight end Bobby Nichols, defensive end Ronnie Jones and kicker Bill McClard.

Five Backs Near 1,000 Yard Goal

NEW YORK (AP) — Five running backs, led by Steve Owens of the Detroit Lions, are in a position to finish the National Football League season with 1,000 yards or more gained on the ground.

In the last three years, just five runners in all have been able to enter the exclusive 1,000-yard club.

But Owens, Larry Brown of Washington, John Brockington of Green Bay, Larry Csonka of Miami and Floyd Little of Denver appear to have good chances of making it, according to NFL statistics released today.

Owens currently is running No. 1 with 667 yards, followed by Brown, the only member of the 1,000-yard group among the five, with 629 yards. Then comes Csonka, the American Conference leader, with 617, followed by Brockington, 602, and Little, 578.

The current passing leaders are Roger Staubach of Dallas in the NFC and Bob Griese of Miami in the AFC. Billy Parks of San Diego leads the AFC in receptions with 36 while Dick Gordon of Chicago is the NFC leader with 33.

Lyle Scores 12th Straight Ring Victory

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Unbeaten Ron Lyle, 216½, of Denver, scored his 12th straight ring victory, a third-round knockout of Joe E. Lewis 204, Los Angeles, in a scheduled 10-rounder Wednesday night.

Lyle, the aggressor throughout, dropped his opponent with a series of blows toward the close of round three.

It was Lyle's seventh knockout in nine fights and marked the second loss for Lewis against six triumphs.

In a companion feature, Vic "Dynamite" Scott, 207, of Los Angeles, scored a first-round technical knockout over Bobby Francis, 223, also of Los Angeles at 2:14 of round one. It was the seventh victory and seventh knockout for Scott, and the third loss for Francis against 14 successes.

Colonels and Squires Tie for 1st in ABA East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A vital steal by Roland Taylor with 13 seconds left on the clock kept the Virginia Squires tied with the Kentucky Colonels for first place in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

After he stole the ball, Taylor drove in for a basket that gave the Squires a 119-116 squeaker over the Floridians Wednesday night. Trailing 117-116, the Floridians had the ball and called time out to set up a possible winning play.

Taylor spoiled it by stealing the in-bound pass from Larry Jones to Mack Calvin and drove in for the basket that sewed it up for the Squires. Charlie Scott led Virginia with 35 points. Calvin topped the Floridians with 32.

Kentucky had an easy time beating Dallas 115-89. In the other ABA games, Utah whipped the New York Nets 127-110 and Indiana overwhelmed Pittsburgh 154-125.

Led by Dan Issel's 26 points, the Colonels quickly opened a 23-7 bulge over the Chaparrals and coasted to their sixth straight victory.

Bob Netolicky, with 30 points, and rookie George McGinnis, with 37, combined for 57 points in leading the Pacers over the Condors. George Thompson of Pittsburgh took high game honors with 36.

Jimmy Jones scored 12 points in the closing minutes to spark Utah over the Nets and keep the Stars half a game ahead of Indiana in the ABA West.

Jones finished with 23 points, the same as Zelmo Beaty. Bill Melchioni, with 34, and Rick Barry, with 26, topped the Nets.

A Victory over Adversity

Marshall U.: A Year Later

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (NEA) — Nate Ruffin said he first heard about the crash when he walked out of a picture show in town on that misty, drizzling Saturday night and a girl he knew stopped him short.

"Her eyes were big like this," said Nate, "and she said, 'How'd you make it?'"

"Make what?" I asked. She looked at me like I was something dead. Then she faintly.

Nate Ruffin, co-captain and defensive back for the Marshall University football team, had not made the trip to Greenville, N.C., to play East Carolina State on Nov. 14, 1970. He would soon undergo an operation for calcium deposits on his right bicep. Nate's seat was taken by a member of The Big Green, the school alumni-and-friends booster club.

So Nate, by the haphazard of fate, was not on the plane that carried home that Big Green member and other local team supporters, including shopkeepers, legislators, doctors, lawyers, dentists, and 34 of Nate's teammates, plus the entire football coaching staff, the athletic director and the sports information director, and some of their wives. Seventy-five in all.

Nate was not on the Southern Airways DC-9 that rainy night when the plane, flying for the mountain top Tri-State Airport, hit the tops of pine trees instead, cartwheeled into a mountainside, landed nose first, exploded and disintegrated. Teams of scientists were sent down from Washington, D.C., and after two weeks of laborious work, 69 bodies were positively identified. The remains of six others, all players, were buried in a common grave.

It was the worst American sports team disaster in history, and followed by a month the crash that killed 14 Wichita State football players and their coaches.

Nate Ruffin, one year later, can talk about the crash calmly. No hint of tears in Nate's brown eyes, as he sits on a dormitory couch. His black face is gentle, absorbed, intelligent, without facade. His voice is slightly husky. His body, 6 feet, 180 pounds, though solid, seems slight.

"I said I'd never play any more ball," said Nate Ruffin. "I felt no desire. All my friends were gone. I figured I didn't have to play anyway. I've got these calcium deposits and the doctors say that if I get a blow a certain way on the nerve, my right arm will become paralyzed for life. You know, I couldn't unbend my arm for six months. I learned to do everything left-handed."

After awhile, Nate changed his mind about playing. "I wanted to be a part of this young team, this rebuilding team," he said. "I guess I felt an obligation to the dead, too."

Nate is a senior, the last living link of a Marshall team that had the school's first undefeated freshman squad, in 1968, then suffered through the disillusionment and embarrassment of a recruiting scandal that resulted in Marshall being indefinitely suspended from the Mid-American Conference in 1969, then undergoing a thorough house-cleaning—a team that had hopes of becoming one of the best in Marshall history.

"The greatest memory of that team," said Nate, "was when we beat Bowling Green in 1969. If we lost to them, we would have broken the national record for winless games, at 28. The whole week was called, 'Stop the Streak Week' on campus. Oh, we were so fired up for that game. BG was a powerhouse—a big favorite. We won 27-16. The Green Bay Packers couldn't have beat us that Saturday."

Nate was one of three starters who did not make the trip to East Carolina State. The other two were Ed Carter and Felix Jordan. Jordan, like Nate, had been injured. Carter's case was eerie. His father had died a few days before and Carter, of course, attended the funeral. His mother asked Ed to stay home with her for that weekend.

Carter and Jordan are juniors now. They and Nate formed the nucleus of the new team, a team seemingly a kind of crazy quilt, with a few transfer students, some walk-ons, green kids off last year's frosh team, and greener kids who last season were playing for high schools in Barrackville, W. Va.; Toronto, Ohio; Louisville, Ky.; Pleuna, Ala.

Twenty of the 22 starters are freshmen and sophomores. The team is playing the same schedule, against the same tough, experienced opponents that the crash victims would have played. In its first home game this season, Marshall was a 20-point underdog against Xavier, and won on a last-second touchdown. It was called, around town, "the miracle game." Marshall lost its next game to Miami (Ohio), 66-6, and lost the two after that. But on Homecoming against Bowling Green, a team with bowl aspirations, a team that had beaten Miami by 30 points, Marshall dominated the game and won.

"It seemed like these were more than just football games, just like the season seems more than just a football season," said Marshall's new football coach, Jack Lengyel. "We're a kind of symbol, I think. It may sound corny, but I think we're symbolizing the spirit of America, the idea of proving that you can come back from adversity."

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (NEA) — This is a hilly, heavily industrialized town. It makes the bumpers for the nation's cars and, on its Ohio River barges, it exports much of the nation's coal. It is a small valley city, population 85,000, situated in the middle of the tri-state area of Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

It has a lank-lean homogeneous population, ancestors of pioneers who pushed into the mountains from the tidelands. There is much poverty on the city's outskirts.

"But they're good people," said local sports editor Ernie Salvatore. "They'd take the shirt off their back and give you half of it."

Despite the flattening-out effects of television, they still retain local colloquialisms. A paper bag is still a "poke." "Fish" is "feesh," "bush" is "boosh," "beagles" are "biggles." Many still use the divine interjection, "West By God Virginia."

And the community and Marshall University are closely knit. The plane crash last Nov. 14 that took the lives of 34 football players also killed many local gentry, from doctors to shopkeepers.

"That's what made the tragedy so unique," said Marshall athletic director Joe McMullen. "It touched the entire community."

The town is filled with alumni, but even those who have never sat in on a single lecture call it "our university." "The townspeople," continued McMullen, "never say, 'Those damned college kids.' The college kids are their kids, literally and figuratively."

And so, of course, the whole town mourned the tragedy.

"It was awful for a long time," recalls restaurant owner Lloyd Frankel. "I went to 11 wakes in a week. Three, four funerals a day."

The town now had to rise out of the ashes of that plane crash on the pine-tree mountainside. Community leaders were gone. The football team had to rebuild from scratch. It had no football coach, no conference (the Mid-American Conference had dropped Marshall in 1969 for recruiting violations) and barely a skeleton of a football team left.

"It was dark, very dark around campus then," said senior Linda Lafon, "but the attitude was never defeat. Never."

But some of the freshmen players were planning to forget about football entirely. Keith Karl, now a sophomore center, was one of them. One of his best friends was Ted Shoebridge, record-breaking Marshall quarterback of last year's team. Shoebridge and Karl, from neighboring towns in New Jersey, had been friendly opponents in high school.

He was home last Christmas and visited Shoebridge's parents in Lyndhurst, N.J. He had never met them before. "I walked into the house," recalls Keith Karl, "and Ted's parents hugged me. They told me that Ted used to write home about me. And his dad said, and these were his exact words, 'Go back and do it for Ted.' It kinda broke me up."

The problem at first was to get a coach. No easy task. McMullen offered the job to Bob Phillips, an assistant coach at Penn State. He turned down the job. Sam Huff was in contention but then, in an apparent disagreement with McMullen, withdrew. Then Dick Bestwick, freshman coach at Georgia Tech was offered the job in the spring. He accepted, spent one day on campus, spoke with the team. Then at dinner that night Bestwick shocked McMullen. "I'm backing out," said Bestwick. "My family doesn't want to come."

"It made you wonder," said Keith Karl. "Didn't anybody want to come down and rebuild? It made us feel like we weren't wanted."

Meanwhile, the townfolk were buying more season tickets than ever. Three thousand season tickets were sold; the best in the past was 1,500.

The local Elks established a scholarship fund.

In Cincinnati, John Repassy and Robert A. Harris Sr. have organized a Citizens' Committee for Air Safety. Repassy and Harris had sons on the 1970 Marshall team. Repassy, a licensed private pilot, said he helped establish the group "so that our sons will not have died in vain."

John Norrell, from New York City, whose son "Nutsy" was a player killed in the crash, raised $1,300 from strangers to buy photography equipment for the school, "so that future Marshall players will enjoy game films the way my son did."

Carroll Rosenbloom, Baltimore Colts owner, who once owned a dress manufacturing plant in Huntington, sent $50,000. In December, Kansas City Chiefs players had pitched in $1,000 for the kids of the survivors so that, wrote Buck Buchanan, "Christmas should not be so bleak."

And a 10-year-old boy in Michigan sent McMullen a letter: "I am enclosing $1.80. I didn't go to the movies last week. I want to help Marshall get a new football team."

AGELESS ATHLETES
Four of the top 10 money winners on the pro golf tour this year are 40 or older and of 13 leading players by scoring average, seven won't see 39 again. Julius Boros is the oldest of the group at 51. But Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, both 59, are still active, too.

NHL Stars Head for Season-End Scoring Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Hockey League season is only five weeks old, but the New York line of Rod Gilbert, Vic Hadfield and Jean Ratelle, and Montreal's Frank Mahovlich already are taking aim on season-ending scoring records.

The Gilbert-Hadfield-Ratelle combination—the league's top scoring unit—accounted for eight points Wednesday night as the Rangers thrashed the Los Angeles Kings 7-1 and extended their unbeaten string to 12 games.

Gilbert and Hadfield each collected two goals and one assist, and Ratelle set up two goals as the Rangers handed the Kings their seventh straight setback. Gilbert now has 27 points, the most in the league. Hadfield is next with 26 points and Ratelle is fourth with 21, only one behind Boston's Phil Esposito.

The total of 74 points in 15 games for the Rangers' No. 1 line puts it far ahead of the record-setting pace set last season by the Bruins' Esposito, Ken Hodge and Wayne Cashman, who finished with 336 points in 78 games.

Mahovlich, meanwhile, collected his 15th goal—most in the league—as the Canadiens whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2. His goal total is ahead of the pace Esposito set last season, when he shattered the NHL mark with 76 goals.

In other NHL games Wednesday night, Detroit posted its first victory under Coach Johnny Wilson, edging Minnesota 2-1; Chicago downed Boston 3-1, and Pittsburgh defeated Vancouver 3-1.

The Rangers' victory kept them two points ahead of Montreal in the East Division. Asked if it was frustrating to be winning so consistently and not being able to pull away from the pursuing Canadiens,

Rangers' Coach Emile Francis said:

"Frustrating? No, I've been waiting to win like this all my life."

The Canadiens kept pace with the high-flying Rangers by beating Toronto with the help of Mahovlich's goal and powerplay goals by Guy Lapointe and Jacques Lemaire.

Montreal's Claude Larose suffered a 15-stitch wound on his left cheek when he was struck by an errant puck as he sat on the bench early in the first period.

Goals by Mickey Redmond and Nick Libbitt enabled the Red Wings to end their four-game winless streak under Wilson and beat Minnesota. The loss halted the North Stars' five-game winning streak and knocked them out of a tie for first place in the West.

Chicago took over sole possession of the top spot in the West, defeating Boston on goals by the Hull brothers—Bobby and Dennis—and Cliff Koroll. Bobby's goal was a 70-footer.

Bryan Hexall Jr.'s two goals paced Pittsburgh's victory over Vancouver.

Young Irish Girl Is Humiliated

LONDON, Derry, Northern Ireland (AP) — Another teenage girl was shorn and tarred in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district early today for dating British soldiers.

A crowd of about 200 watched in silence as a group of women dundled the girl from a car, tied her to a lamppost and set to work with scissors and tar pot. "Soldier Doll" said a cardboard placard hung around her neck.

She was tied to the same post at which 19-year-old Marta Doherty, fiancée of a British soldier, was humiliated in the same way Tuesday.

Earlier in the night Wednesday a crowd of Bogsideers jeered as Marta fled from her home with a scarf over her shorn head and took refuge across town with friends.

On Friday she is scheduled to marry 19-year-old Pvt. John Larter of the Royal Anglican Regiment, one of the units sent to Northern Ireland two years ago to try to keep the warring Protestants and Roman Catholics apart.

Larter, became a Roman Catholic so he could marry the girl.

"He is sick and worried but determined to go through with the wedding," said Father Bernard Jones, an army chaplain who is to marry them.

Bogsideers said at least four other girls have been marked for the scissors and tar treatment. One teen-ager fled to England Wednesday after "Soldier Dolly Beware" was daubed on her house.

A 20-year-old girl who was shorn but not tarred on Monday told newsmen: "I'll never go with a soldier again. If you live in the Bogside, you must live by the rules."

Elsewhere in Ireland: Belfast police arrested two high-ranking officers of the Irish Republican Army and said they were suspected of killing three young soldiers who were shot in the back of the head last March after they had been drinking in a pub on the outskirts of Belfast.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic survived another challenge to his policy of seeking the reunion of Ireland by peaceful means only. The Dail, the Irish parliament, defeated 72 to 69 a motion of no confidence supported by militants who want the government in the South to take a tougher line.

Castro Thinks Imperialism Has Failed in L.A.

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Fidel Castro says his visit to Chile is the "best demonstration that imperialism has failed" in Latin America.

The Cuban prime minister, making his first trip away from home in seven years, arrived Wednesday afternoon for a 10- to 12-day state visit with Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Warmly greeted by thousands of Chileans at the airport and along the 17-mile trip to the suburban Cuban Embassy, Castro told a news conference, "Somebody should make a film of today's reception and send it as a gift to President Nixon."

In the only hostile incident reported along the motorcade route, a group of right-wing youths shouted insults, and one young man tried to throw a plastic bag filled with ink at Castro. Police arrested the youth.

Castro said his trip did not break the U.S. blockade of his island nation, that was broken "on Sept. 4 of last year when Salvador Allende won the Chilean presidential election."

Israel Fears U.S., Soviet Solution

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban says the Israeli government is concerned President Nixon may work out a Middle East solution with Soviet leaders during his visit to Moscow next May.

Eban made the remark Wednesday night in answer to a question at a kibbutz meeting but did not elaborate. The Israeli government has said repeatedly any permanent solution must be negotiated by the Arabs and Israelis and not imposed from outside.

Eban denied reports of a confrontation between the Israeli government and the Nixon administration over the latter's Middle East policy and its hold-up of shipments of Phantom jets to Israel but conceded there was a "difference of opinion." He said the Americans have not changed their support of Israel's three basic demands for a peace settlement:

—That there be no total withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied Arab territories before peace.

—That a peace settlement cannot be imposed on the parties to the conflict.

—That Israel must remain strong militarily.

He said the differences between Jerusalem and Washington had been exaggerated.

In Tel Aviv, a grenade exploded under the back seat of a crowded commuter bus this morning, slightly wounding three Israeli passengers. A police spokesman said the time-detonated explosive was believed placed in the bus at the start of its run, Tira, an Arab village 15 miles north of the city. It exploded more than an hour after the bus left the village.

It was the first reported act of sabotage in Tel Aviv since Nov. 6, 1970, when two bomb explosions at the central bus station killed one Israeli and wounded 34.

In Cairo, President Anwar Sadat, who took personal command of Egypt's 800,000-man army last week, scheduled a major policy address tonight at the opening of the new Parliament.

Hotline for the Deaf and Desperate Woman

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Lonely and depressed, a young woman calls to say she's afraid she doesn't love her husband anymore. She's involved with another man and needs to talk about it.

More than that she needs someone who can talk to her. She's deaf.

Like 400,000 other deaf Americans, she lives in a silent world, often isolated and alone; sometimes desperate.

This woman's request for advice was one of almost 200 calls received by a new Hotline for the Deaf, a 24-hour listening and referral service started two months ago by the Prince George's County Mental Health Association.

The service offers deaf persons living in the Washington metropolitan area a solution to one of their greatest problems: a way to communicate with the rest of society.

"The deaf live in a very closed community," said Diane Cabot, coordinator for the program. "They have the same problems we do but they can't communicate them."

The Hotline for the Deaf rings five or six times a day—a teen-ager wants to ask an old girl friend if she'll see him again and needs help calling her for a date; a mother has a son with a high fever and wants help making a doctor's appointment.

A deaf man's car won't start, so he calls the Hotline number 301-584-4480 and an aide not only finds him a mechanic, but also calls the man's boss to say he will be late for work.

"A situation which may not seem like an emergency to the hearing can be very serious for the deaf," Miss Cabot said.

The service is available at this time to only 250 of the 3,000 deaf persons in the Washington area who own a Teletype Writing Machine, a $500 device that connects to a telephone. The machine enables its owners to communicate through typed messages, similar to telegrams, with the Hotline or with other persons who have the same equipment.

Monetary Solution Elusive

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes of settling the international monetary impasse this year are fading rapidly in the absence of the Nixon administration decision to devalue the dollar.

That appears to be the situation following the administration announcement Wednesday that it is postponing a key international monetary meeting scheduled in Rome later this month.

The Treasury said it is seeking to reschedule the meeting of finance ministers of the top 10 non-Communist countries in early December, but added:

"After evaluating views and statements of others, prospects for progress did not appear sufficient to warrant a meeting at an earlier date," a Treasury spokesman said. "More time for preparation appears useful."

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who is chairman of the so-called "Group of Ten" finance ministers, earlier sought the late November meeting in Rome in hopes that progress could be made on resolving the worldwide dispute.

The Treasury's decision to postpone the Rome meeting follows closely on the heels of a demand by Common Market countries that a solution to the deadlock must include a devaluation of the dollar.

The United States has stood firm against devaluing the dollar by raising the price of gold, saying that action would fail to solve the world monetary problem.

Sombody didn't just say, "Hey, this is the year for little economy cars—let's build one," and there appeared a 1972 Volkswagen.

Fact is, 24 years of Volkswagens preceded it. Each one a little better than the year before. The idea was that we had a good idea. So we stayed with it. And improved it. Thousands of times.

The old nemesis of car makers, new model bugs, were eliminated years ago.

If there's one thing we learned about making economy cars, it's this:

There's no such thing as an overnight success.

Doesn't Dress to Shock

LONDON (AP) — Sonia McMahon, the 39-year-old blonde wife of the Australian prime minister, says people are wrong if they say she dresses to shock.

Mrs. McMahon said it was her 63-year-old husband William who picked out the stunning white dress with ankle-to-thigh slit that caused a stir at a White House reception last week.

"I don't see it as part of my job to try and brighten up the political scene with glamorous dresses," Mrs. McMahon said Tuesday. "I bought the dress I wore at the White House after my husband and I saw it in a Sydney shop window and he said he liked it."

The McMahons are now in London, where the Australian leader is having talks with the British government.

Drunkenness by Another Name

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Legislature has enacted and sent to Gov. Francis W. Sargent a bill eliminating the crime of public drunkenness and setting up a network of detoxification centers where alcoholics can sober up.

Sargent has expressed support for the bill and is expected to sign it.

The measure won final approval Monday in the House on a 197-4 roll call. It passed the Senate on a voice vote.

The intent of the bill is to treat alcoholism as a disease rather than a crime and create a state Division of Alcoholism.

Yen to Increase If Surcharge Is Removed

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government is prepared to increase the value of the yen a maximum of 12 1/2 per cent if the U.S. government removes its 10 per cent import surcharge. Japan's largest economic newspaper said today.

The Nihon Keizai Shimbun said government sources told it the Japanese would present this offer to U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who arrives in Japan Tuesday for talks with Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda.

Finance Minister Minoru Mizuta and probably Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Government sources declined to comment on the report.

President Nixon imposed the surcharge and other economic restrictions in Aug. 19 in an attempt to force Japan and other nations to revalue their currencies to the advantage of the dollar.

As a stopgap measure, Japan floated the yen in Aug. 28 and its value rose about 9 per cent compared with its old parity of 360 yen to the dollar.

There have been reports the United States would use Japan to revalue the yen upward by at least 15 per cent. There also have been reports that the United States would ask Japan to restrict certain exports to the United States.

Liberal trade agreements from the United States and purchase of U.S. weapons to help improve the status of the U.S. balance of payments.

Winter Tourists Center Uniforms

MRS. BETTY SMITH AND ALICE ANN ADAMS OF WEST MEMPHIS

By CLARK H. RALSTON
Assistant Travel Director
Department Parks and Tourism Travelers driving into Arkansas for the first time frequently remark that this state's Tourist Information Centers are the most attractive, efficient, and of any that they have seen in cross-country travels. And the ladies serving as travel consultants also are complimented for their sharp looks and knowledgeable assistance to the travelers.
In order to keep up this sharp appearance, the Travel Division of the Department of Parks and Tourism has just purchased new winter uniforms for these ladies.
They first reported for work in these new garments on November 1.

The new winter uniforms permit the wearing of skirts or slacks, depending upon the weather. The skirts are just like those purchased for summer uniforms this year, thus saving considerable money when one considers that they may be worn next summer as well.
Double-knit Polyester, of almost a navy blue, is the base for the winter uniforms. To reduce upkeep, the clothing may be washed in lukewarm water and drip dry within two hours.
The wearing of these new ensembles almost coincides with the opening date of a new Tourist Information Center at West Memphis. The Center is located on Interstate 40, about two miles west of the city, and about a mile west of the junction with Interstate 55. This facility is scheduled to go into service on November 15.

The formal opening and dedication ceremonies will come at a later date, after all of the grounds in the rest area have been landscaped.

The West Memphis Center will be the seventh such facility to go into operation on Federal Interstate Highways at points of entry into Arkansas. Already in operation are Centers at Bella Vista and Ashdown on U. S. 71;
Interstate 30 at Texarkana;
Interstate 40 at Dora, near Fort Smith; U. S. 67 at Corning; and
U. S. 167 near El Dorado.

Travel Director Lou Oberste said that other Centers have been authorized for Interstate 55 near Blytheville; U. S. 63 at Mammoth Springs; at the junction of U. S. 65 and 62 near Harrison; near Lake Village at the junction of U. S. 82 and 65;

and at the foot of the Mississippi River Bridge at Helena.

Oberste noted that travelers are pleased to have clean rest rooms and picnic areas at these Centers. And, when they go inside for Arkansas highway maps, the travel consultants are able to persuade many travelers to get off the main highways and visit scenic or historical areas and to do more sightseeing in Arkansas.

He pointed out that, with their sharp appearance and knowledge of the state, travelers spend much more time and money in Arkansas than if they were just left to their own meanderings.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If
Rudolph Valentino or Tyrone Power were around today, would they be as big stars of television as they were in motion pictures?

Probably not. Styles in heroes change almost as fast as clothing styles. Today's TV heroes are more likely to be doers than lookers; more likely to be family men than Casanovas; and more likely to be middle aged than young. TV's biggest male stars today are Flip Wilson, Carroll O'Connor of "All in the Family" and Robert Young.
Singing idol Bobby Sherman's new TV series faces midseason cancellation; Tony Curtis and Rod Taylor, primarily film stars, are not winning women fans in their two series.

Rock Hudson, tall, dark and romantic in many motion pictures, was this season's most likely candidate as milady's favorite television visitor. Hudson's series, "McMillan and Wife" is one of the three series which make up NBC's "Mystery Movie" on Wednesdays.

The most popular star of the "Mystery Movie" trio is the least romantic, most antiheroic of them all, Peter Falk, a short, raspy-voiced fellow in an unpressed suit as he plays a cigar-chewing police lieutenant in "Columbo."

The series is doing well, and "Columbo" is doing best within the series. Hudson is certainly attractive playing a police commissioner in his series, but the story lines are often tangled and dangling ends are sometimes left. At any moment through the series, McMillan and wife will drop the action at hand to engage in a sort of idiot persiflage meant to be witty. Too often it sounds forced.

This week's show was a wildly complicated story that finally got around to a jewel robbery during a costume ball.
One had a feeling that the whole show was built to put Hudson into an outsize Easter bunny outfit.

The three networks are running a close race for the popularity lead among daytime shows, with NBC slightly ahead.

Most popular daytime programs are, as usual, the soap operas. "As the World Turns" on CBS is—as it has been for many seasons—the top show, followed by NBC's "Days of Our Lives" and "The Doctors," and ABC's "General Hospital."
"Hollywood Squares" on NBC is the most popular pal show, and "Jeopardy" on the same network is tops in the game show category.

HEAT HURTS CHERRIES
LA GRANDE, Ore. (AP) —
Union County agriculture officials say cherry growers in the area may lose as much as $250,000 this year following a month of hot, dry weather.

Paul Johnson, an orchard keeper at Pumpkin Ridge in the eastern part of the state, said a thermometer showed 100 degrees or more for 10 days of the month-long spell and temperatures were above 90 degrees for most of the other 26 days.

One large firm said the weather had rendered its entire crop unusable for anything but salvage material.
